

Sidecar Design Pattern

The sidecar pattern consists of the main application, the web application, and a helper container/process with a responsibility that is important for your application but is not necessarily a part of the application and might not be needed for the main container to work.

Sidecar in brief is an extra container in your pod to enhance or extend the functionality of the main container.

